May 3, 1976

POUCH MAIL

George J. Brandt, Jr., Esq.
Watson, Leavenworth, Kelton & Taggart
100 Park Avenue
New York, NY 10017

RE: Helf. 582-703 Columbia PM 538

Dear George:

I presume we will have to accept the Patent Office ruling that this is vegetable matter and not patentable. If you think there is an argument that will make them change, please present it. Otherwise accept the method claims. It is curious that they think it concerns red beets. Could this be a translation error?

Very truly yours,

G. Esler Inskeep
Assistant Patent Officer

ceh

cc: R. Thomson

2026391264

Source: https://www.industrydocuments.ucsf.edu/docs/qnmj0000